Welcome

Spring blooms, and so do NYBG learning opportunities! In this catalog, we shifted our name from Adult to Continuing Education to reflect our commitment to lifelong learning. This season we are delighted to showcase the courses you love while presenting new offerings and inspiring speakers.

We are happy to announce the launch of our first set of courses on the Canvas learning platform, which will better enable us to bring you great content online such as History of Botanical Art and Flower ID from A to Z. We do this with an eye toward launching more flexible online content to expand learning opportunities that suit busy schedules. Stay tuned for more information!

April is an important month at NYBG, a time when we honor Earth Day and continued efforts for a sustainable, healthy planet. This year we welcome award-winning Tree of 40 Fruit contemporary artist, professor, and fruit tree grower Sam Van Aken, who will lead a discussion on biodiversity and a hands-on apple grafting master class to show how you too can create a tree of many fruits.

In May visual artist Ebony G. Patterson will be in conversation with renowned curator Thelma Golden. Our Garden-wide exhibition of Patterson’s work is a must-see, as she will work directly with NYBG to form a new body of sculptural and horticultural installations that bring her unique perspective to life. Patterson’s work will shed new light on NYBG and provide intriguing pathways for engagement with the natural world.

Juneteenth weekend will be celebrated with multiple events. A Caribbean party—complete with food trucks, shave ice, music, and performances—will mark the opening of our Edible Academy exhibition African American Garden: The Caribbean Experience, curated by Dr. Jessica B. Harris, America’s leading scholar on the foodways of the African Diaspora. This celebration will be followed by a symposium featuring a dialogue between Dr. Harris and award-winning author Jamaica Kincaid; a panel discussion focused on the role of sugar in the history of the Caribbean and beyond; book signings; and more.

Summer always brings a fantastic opportunity to fast-track your learning at NYBG. Our Summer Intensives are back in Floral Design, Gardening, Landscape Design, and (new) Therapeutic Horticulture.

You can count on us to bring you high-quality, practical, and fun courses that will expand your intellectual and creative growth. We look forward to growing with you as spring and summer bloom!

MASTER GARDENER:
ADVANCE FILM SCREENING
INTRODUCED BY SIGOURNEY WEAVER AND PAUL SCHRADER

Join us for a special sneak preview of Master Gardener starring Academy Award® nominee and NYBG Trustee Sigourney Weaver. Directed by Academy Award nominee Paul Schrader, Master Gardener follows horticulturist Narvel Roth (Joel Edgerton), the meticulous gardener of Gracewood Gardens. Roth is as much devoted to tending the grounds of this beautiful and historic estate as to pandering to his employer, the wealthy dowager Mrs. Haverhill (Weaver). When she demands that he take on her wayward and troubled great-niece Maya (Quintessa Swindell) as a new apprentice, Roth’s spartan existence is upended, unlocking dark secrets from a violent past that threatens them all.

This screening will be introduced by Sigourney Weaver and Paul Schrader through an engaging conversation about the film and the pivotal role that gardening plays in this tale of redemption.

Earth Day 2023
FEATURING SAM VAN AKEN
SATURDAY, APRIL 22

As part of this year’s Earth Day programming, NYBG hosts artist, professor, and fruit tree grower Sam Van Aken for a dynamic discussion and hands-on apple grafting master class spotlighting this centuries-old horticultural technique and its integral role in improving local biodiversity and habitat conservation.

Re-Orcharding New York: Lecture + Q&A
Among its many forgotten histories, New York City was the origin of fruit tree growing in the U.S. From the indigenous Lenape (Delaware) people cultivating plums, apples, and cherries, to the Huguenots from France introducing grafting and other agricultural practices in the 18th century, the city and region have been shaped by waves of migration and those who brought fruit along as a connection to home.

Fascinated by the historical narratives and cultural significance embedded within fruit and their ability to preserve genetic diversity, Sam Van Aken will share his citywide project, The Open Orchard, a public orchard on Governors Island that launched in 2022 and contains nearly 250 fruit tree varieties that once grew in and around New York City but disappeared with the rise of industrialized agriculture. Van Aken will highlight the process of returning these lost varieties to sites throughout the city and its environmental benefits. He will also highlight additional projects such as his partnership with NYC Parks GreenThumb, which distributes additional trees to local community gardens.

11 am–12 pm | Ross Hall | 234HRT814 | $35/$39

Apple Grafting Master Class
Sam Van Aken’s famed conservation work, Tree of 40 Fruit, contains multiple varieties of apples, peaches, plums, apricots, and cherries that blossom and produce fruit sequentially. In this hands-on master class, explore the basics of grafting different varieties of apples, and hear how old and new grafting technologies allow Van Aken to create public art that also serves as environmental preservation. To support local community gardens, most trees grafted in this special master class will be donated.

See p. 24 for prerequisite information.

Ebony G. Patterson
IN CONVERSATION WITH THELMA GOLDEN

This summer NYBG presents a major site-specific exhibition by contemporary artist Ebony G. Patterson. The first artist to embed within the institution for an immersive residency, Patterson is working directly with NYBG’s gardens and collections to create spaces that evoke the natural world while simultaneously using beauty as an invitation to confront larger societal questions about race, gender, class, and violence.

Her exhibition will provoke questions about what is traditionally considered beautiful and what is often cast aside as unwelcoming or threatening, seducing viewers into acknowledging darker truths lurking ominously beneath lushly planted surfaces.

This event will celebrate the opening of the exhibition, on view beginning May 27, through a dynamic conversation between the artist and Thelma Golden, the world's premier curator of art of the African Diaspora and Director and Chief Curator of The Studio Museum in Harlem.

Ebony G. Patterson

is an award-winning visual artist who works in a range of media to use beauty as a tool to address global injustices. Her work is held in the collections of major art institutions, including the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, The Studio Museum in Harlem, Whitney Museum of American Art in New York, Pérez Art Museum Miami, and National Gallery of Jamaica, among others. Most recently she was awarded the 2023 David C. Driskell Prize by the High Museum of Art in Atlanta.

Thursday, May 25 | 5:30–6:30 pm | Ross Hall | 234HRT808 | $35/$39
Curated by Dr. Jessica B. Harris, African American Garden: The Caribbean Experience will highlight the plants and gardening histories that are essential contributions to Caribbean foodways, including those that have been brought by Caribbean immigrants to the United States. This exhibition will open at the Edible Academy on June 17, the weekend of Juneteenth.

As part of the opening, this symposium will explore food stories of the Caribbean in two compelling sessions that consider history and memory, as well as the culinary journeys of both people and plants.

MANGOES, BREADFRUIT, CALLALOO, AND BOTTLE GOURDS: Stories Told by Plants of the Caribbean

_Jamaica Kincaid in Conversation with Dr. Jessica B. Harris_

Award-winning author Jamaica Kincaid will sit down with Dr. Jessica B. Harris to talk about Caribbean plants and their associated narratives. This wide-ranging dialogue will cover topics such as Kincaid's writings on Caribbean gardens and gardening, as well as the associations certain plants have to culinary traditions first brought to the Caribbean by Africans and Europeans and then carried by immigrants to the United States. This conversation will touch on migration, adaptation, perseverance, and power, as manifested through plants.

_Born in Antigua, Jamaica Kincaid is an award-winning Caribbean African American author best known for her evocative portrayals of family relationships, interwoven with themes of colonialism, gender, race, and class. She is also an accomplished gardener who has expanded the scope of garden writing in essays and memoirs, including her 2020 New Yorker essay Disturbances of the Garden and My Garden (Book). She is a Professor of African American Studies at Harvard._

PRESERVING HISTORY: The Power of Sugar in the Caribbean and Beyond

_Panel Discussion_

In 2023 the entry bed of African American Garden: The Caribbean Experience will mimic a cane field to highlight the centrality of sugar to the region. Panelists will discuss the history and culture of the Caribbean, as well as the various roles played by sugar in the region—and beyond. Food historian Dr. Scott Alves Barton will moderate a discussion about the history and culture of the Caribbean, and the various roles played by sugar in the region—and beyond. Panelists include Pierre Serrao, co-founder of the popular Bronx-based culinary collective Ghetto Gastro; Shannon Mustipher, cocktail consultant, spirits educator, and author of the award-winning Tiki: Modern Tropical Cocktails; and Dr. Maricel Presilla, an award-winning author, culinary historian, chef, restaurateur, and a widely recognized expert on Latin American cuisine.

A botany class gives you a deeper understanding of how plants connect us to the natural world, and can be your gateway to herbal healing, cross-cultural understanding, and appreciation of nature’s seasonal beauty.

THE CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

The NYBG Botany Certificate courses in subjects such as native flora, ethnobotany, ecology, and botanical nomenclature reflect the Garden’s strengths in botanical science research, as well as its world-famous and unequalled resources—the William and Lynda Steere Herbarium, housing 7.8 million dried plant specimens, and the LuEsther T. Mertz Library, with its 550,000 volumes, 12,000 serial titles, and 11 million archival documents.

Over the course of the program, students will come to know how plants function, grow, develop, and reproduce—and learn to identify a wide array of plants by stems, leaves, flowers, and fruit.

NEW! THE BIOLOGY BEHIND ZOMBIE ANT FUNGI!
Ants are ubiquitous organisms, commonly found throughout tropical forests worldwide, and estimated to comprise 4x the biomass of all vertebrates on Earth combined. Such dominance, not surprisingly, exposes ants to a range of pathogens—especially fungal parasites. Among those are Ophiocordyces, the intriguing “zombie-ant fungi.” NYBG mycologist João Araújo, Ph.D., will share insights from his research—both in the lab and in the field—on the unusual adaptations of this fungus. These parasitic fungi, which inspired HBO’s apocalyptic series The Last of Us, have evolved to take control of the ants they infect, and cause them to behave in ways they wouldn’t otherwise.  | $80/$90

The Gardener’s Palette with Jo Thompson

Color in the garden can set the mood at a quick glance. As one of the UK’s leading garden designers, Jo Thompson knows how to create harmony in the garden through color—selecting options that pair well and enhance the overall palette. Winner of four Gold and five Silver Gilt medals at the Chelsea Flower Show, as well as the coveted People’s Choice Award at the first Royal Horticultural Society Chatsworth Flower Show, Thompson joins us to share an entirely new way for gardeners to confidently incorporate color into their homes. She will provide insight and share captivating visuals from her newest book, The Gardener’s Palette, published in partnership with the Royal Horticultural Society, which features 100 evocative and fresh palettes, paired with images of her own and other designers’ work, and a helpful breakdown of the exact plants used in each design, allowing gardeners to successfully re-create these stunning gardens.

Thompson’s current design projects include the regeneration of the historic walled gardens at Water Lane in Kent, the planting surrounding a 16th-century house in Sussex, a roof garden in Rome, and a naturalistic garden in Connecticut; recent restoration projects include the planting strategy at Highgate Cemetery in London with Gustafson Porter + Bowman, as well as a secret garden in Venice. | $35/$39
