Bronx, NY—The New York Botanical Garden (NYBG) announced additional new dates on select Fridays and Saturdays through September for Starry Nights, in which, conditions permitting, 600 drones light up the sky during a dazzling 10-minute drone show finale, the first of its kind at a New York City cultural institution. Starry Nights is an opportunity to view NYBG's floral and contemporary art exhibition Van Gogh's Flowers in the glow of evening from 7:30 to 10 p.m., with music and performers, plus drinks and food available for purchase. In addition to the remaining Starry Nights on June 20, 21, 27, and 28, the newly announced dates include July 18, 19, 25, and 26; August 1, 2, 8, 9, 15, 16, 22, and 23; and September 5, 6, 12, and 13, 2025. Starry Nights are ticketed through NYBG's presenting partner, Fever, $39 for NYBG Members and $49 for Non-Members. For more information, visit www.nybgstarrynights.com.

Experience Van Gogh's Flowers after dark. The exhibition comes aglow for evening outings that capture the twinkling allure of the artist's nighttime scenery. Within and around NYBG's iconic Enid A. Haupt Conservatory, find yourself surrounded by the botanical beauty that inspired Van Gogh. Wander through a breathtaking lawn of sculptural and real sunflowers, and snap photos of blooming recreations of the artist's work. Conditions permitting, the nighttime experience concludes with a celebration of Van Gogh's iconic The Starry Night, featuring a 10-minute illuminated drone show finale sparkling above. Relax to live music and performers evoking the Parisian bistros Van Gogh frequented while you sip a cocktail and enjoy light bites for purchase. Van Gogh's painted world comes to life as the sun sets on these special evenings at NYBG.

About The New York Botanical Garden

The New York Botanical Garden (NYBG) has been a connective hub among people, plants, and the shared planet since 1891. For nearly 135 years, NYBG has been rooted in the cultural fabric of New York City, in the heart of the Bronx, its greenest borough. NYBG has invited millions of visitors to make the Garden a part of their lives, exploring the joy, beauty, and respite of nature. NYBG's 250 acres are home to renowned exhibitions, immersive botanical experiences, art and music, and events with some of the most influential figures in plant and fungal science, horticulture, and the humanities. NYBG is also a steward of globally significant research collections, from the LuEsther T. Mertz Library collection to the plant and fungal specimens in the William and Lynda Steere Herbarium, the largest such collection in the Western Hemisphere.

The plant people of NYBG—dedicated horticulturists, enthusiastic educators, and scientific adventurers—are committed to helping nature thrive so that humanity can thrive. They believe in their ability to make things better, teaching tens of thousands of kids and families each year about the importance of safeguarding the environment and healthy eating. Expert scientists work across the city, the nation, and the globe to document the plants and fungi of the world—and find actionable, nature-based solutions to the planet's dual climate and biodiversity crises. With eyes always looking forward, they train the next generation of botanists, gardeners, landscape designers, and environmental stewards, ensuring a green future for all. At NYBG, it's nature—or nowhere.
